

Just You and Me

Just you and me
We are no one
Yet you are my everyone

Just you in my life
We are nothing
But are my everything

Just One in the World
And that will suffice
For all yearning and longing.

For all the things

For all the things that brighten my day
For all the things that I may lament
For all words that my heart speaks
For all the tears that my eyes cry
For all that I shall live once for
For all that everything shall have a meaning
For all the fear that I have deep in my soul
For all the hurt that I have deep in my heart
For all that I have seen and will see
For all that I will fail and
For all the times that I will bounce back again
For all that keep me alive until now
I love you.

*Written December 2002
Anglo-Chinese Junior College Library*