

Essay #1

Few years ago, I always annoyed my mum for asking anything about me that I can't remember, because of I am too little. Once it really deep in my heart was she told me I would study mathematic everyday after school when I was in kindergarten, that why I always be the top of the three in my grade, but now! I got a shock suddenly. I was thinking what make the big different between now and when I was a little kid. So I tried to recollect my memories back as much as I could. And it make me found out study and work hard are the rules for success! Also they were the most effective way and remember you that is no exception for reap without sowing.

In the second to fourth year in primary school, which mean the first grade to third grade in America, I fall in love with mathematic, but I thought the biggest reason why I love mathematic so much is because of my maths teacher. I can't remember she taught us in books good or not, but the only thing that I can remember was she will give me a gift (ruler, eraser, pen, etc...) when I was the top five of the results in a maths quiz or exam. This was a first cause that support me to study hard before any quiz or exam. It may also the only reason that make me loved her and make me focus on her teaching and keep quiet.

Unfortunately, it was not represent an eternal truth. After these fews years, I learned how to play online game in the computer which introduced by some of my friends, and I became spend much more time on it than my homework! (also all the times you saw me that I should sit next to the computer, it kind of crazy and it totally stopped my work) Be sure it was a bad tidings for me, but who will know that when you indulged in it. When I became to the fifth year to the second year of my secondary school, which as the same level as the fourth grade to eighth grade in America, I could still handle it by using the mathematic theory that I learned before and sometime listen to the teacher if I am not fall asleep. Luckily, I could also got around seventy something or higher marks in the quiz and exam. (You may said that it is not bad, but it is not good enough because most the time the quiz in our school are really easy to got an A in all quizzes)

Then, I could even felt I became a lazy person and do nothing at home except playing online games, eating and sleeping the things that in needed. I thought that the main reason I will got fall behind with my classmates who study in the same year from my third year in school. And I felt like I didn't sense that I am in a crisis point at that time! Just feeling free and living in my "own life". Then I almost got zero knowledge build-up in next two years. Until an important exam (HKCEE) coming closer and closer, that make me feel nervous, but I still not going to study hard for the exam, is just sometimes take the book out and fast scan it one time for make my parents and I feel more comfortable even I only got three month left.

Finally, until I got an unsatisfactory results in the exam (HKCEE), which affect we could or not get into Form six (twelve grade) or higher grade. I am so disappointed with my result and I have no idea how could I envisage my parents (i knew that it will come after I finished the exam). I knew that hard work can make for lack of talent, although I am well aware that it is too late for me to regret. So I started study hard from the year which I became a U.S. college student. And I know that I have to go all out if I wanted to get a better and better grade from now on, it is a challenge because it's hard for me to quit playing online game or spending many time on the internet as same as the people who try to quit smoking.

Study what you learn just like a brick that as same as building your knowledge. Gaming or playing will be like raining, it may make you feel good or relax, but too much will be slowing down your efficiency or almost destroy what you build. What you wanted to have? That your choice.
