HISTORIC HOMES IN JEOPARDY

A new mixed use development has been planned for the former Elmcrest Hospital site at Marlborough and Main Streets. The project known as Portland Town Place will be submitted to town commissions shortly. The project would contain a mix of retail, office and residential space. The plan shows 10 total buildings. Town Place would contain a 65000 sq. ft. grocery store and other buildings such as a residential tower building.

Thirty-four structures are in danger of demolition including 3 antique houses in a unique setting. These 3 antique houses are the last of a small group of relatively elaborate structures to have been built near the eastern end of Marlborough Street during the 19th century.

“The Hart/Jarvis House, built in 1829-30, is an impressive Greek Revival Temple form with flanking wings set on a cut brownstone foundation. Elizabeth Hart Jarvis was the daughter of Col. Richard W. Hart of Hartford and Saybrook. In 1825, she married Rev. William Jarvis and they moved to Portland where he became pastor of the Trinity Episcopal Church. In 1851, the house was sold to Erastus Brainerd, one of Portland's most successful quarry owners, remaining in that family for 48 years. Comparable in some respects to Middletown's Samuel Russell House, this building embodies architectural styling rarely found in a community the size of Portland. With its associations with prominent citizens of the town, it is an important part of Portland's heritage.”

“Erastus Brainerd, Jr. House was probably built around 1852. It is two stories, built of stuccoed brownstone on a brownstone foundation in a predominantly Italianate style. The Revival style front entry porch of this house displays fluted columns on modified floral urns with ogee arched decorative brackets supporting a balustraded roof. Erastus Brainerd, Jr. may have chosen this site to build his house because his father had recently purchased the Hart-Jarvis House to the west. The elder Brainerd had founded the Brainerd Quarry Company, and young Brainerd was one of its leading members. This building was probably designed by New Haven architect Henry Austin. The Erastus Brainerd house is one of the more elaborate historic houses built in the mid-19th century in Portland, it stands today as a succinct statement of the Brainerd family's success and prominence in the town.”

“The John H Sage House, a 2 1/2 story Queen Anne style structure, was built in 1884 by a descendant of Charles H. Sage, who served as Judge of Probate during most of the mid 1800s. John H. Sage gained national prominence as an ornithologist and maintained one of the largest collections in the State of Connecticut in this house. The John H. Sage House is one of the better preserved Queen Anne style homes remaining in Portland. The building displays the picturesque, asymmetrical qualities normally associated with the Queen Anne mode in both its massing and detailing.”

Architectural information from The History and Architecture of Portland by Loether, Porteus and Sherrow, 1980, where more complete descriptions may be found.

Please watch the Rivereast News Bulletin for notification of commission hearings regarding actions to be taken by developers.

PRESIDENT'S LETTER . . .

Happy Spring! We are looking forward to the spring and blossoms in the Betty Keser Scott Garden at the Ruth Callander House. To celebrate we plan to install a new sign calling attention to the garden. The Portland Garden Club has kindly offered a donation toward its purchase.

We had a terrific year at the Ruth Callander House Museum of Portland History. Sue Anderson did a tremendous job and spent countless hours researching Portland's Farms and interviewing farmers and relatives, acquiring massive amounts of information and photographs, and many artifacts that have been displayed through the year. This display brought a record attendance to the Museum, hundreds of visitors, many of whom came specifically for the farm topic. Our inventory collection, thanks to this exhibit information, is vastly enlarged. Sue plans a book of the compiled material later this year and a second calendar of farm photographs for 2010.

Tom Ladny again provided his terrific historic model trains and layout for our Christmas Exhibit. This year he also provided toy farms complete with many small animals and farmers throughout the layout. His many hours of collection, construction and installation help make the Holiday Exhibit special for young and old alike. Thanks to a number of other volunteers who decorated and helped spread holiday spirit throughout the Museum for Christmas on the Farm.

Our Annual Meeting was changed to its new date in January this year with the implementation of the new bylaws passed last year. New officers were elected and installed, and volunteer awards were presented to Marie Keser for her many years and hours of inventory work, Sue Anderson for her farm project work, and Martha Lutecki for her years of contribution as president. New officers are First VP Sue Anderson, Second VP Martha Lutecki, Recording Secretary Ruth Freeburg, Corresponding Secretary Linda Cunningham, Treasurer Jim McCabe, Directors Gene Sullivan, Debbie Ellsworth and Jim Rau. Thank you to all our returning board members and to Joan Guilmette who has retired from the board for her years of service and work on the bylaws rewrite. Welcome to Debbie Ellsworth who has joined the board. An enjoyable presentation by Herb Duey on Mining in Connecticut, followed the meeting .

Speaking of Programs, Regina Woltmann has again come up with a super lineup for 2009. Take a look at the Calendar on the back of this newsletter and post it so you don't miss these great upcoming selections. Thanks to Regina for consistently seeking out excellent programs year after year.

Spring brings the usual flurry of activity in the Museum and outside with the 13th Annual Town-Wide Tag Sale. The committee has met, planning and work have begun for another exciting day, May 9th. See pages 4-5 for more information.

This Spring brings a brand new event courtesy of Sue Anderson with her wonderful ideas. Her Spring Tea April 26th is sure to be a spectacular event at St. Clements Castle including hats, jewelry and refreshments for all. Make a date to join us, see pages 6-7.

Remember it's a new year and your 2009 Membership is very important to the Society's projects. We're excited by all the letters and email we receive from so many places in the country. All your gifts of information, artifacts and time keep the society alive. Of note, 26 of our memberships are from out-of-state residents, another 18 are Connecticut residents outside of Portland, all from people anxious to remain in contact with Portland's people and its history.

Thank you to all our terrific volunteers who keep the Society and Museum functioning and make all of our events successful every year.

NOTES . . .

Great Tempest

1717 - On Feb. 17th a great snow and tempest covered doors and windows so people went outside through chamber (second story) windows. (Wm Van Beynum)

Museum Docents

Docenting is fun, interesting and easy. Help needed 1st Sunday of every month. Call Gene at 342-0306.

Highschool Yearbooks

The Society's collection of Yearbooks needs many additions to be complete for all years. If you have a yearbook you would like to donate, please contact the Society at PortlandHistSoc@yahoo.com or call 860-342-0303. Several people have also contacted the society hoping to borrow or purchase various editions.

New Penholders

Walter Dower has lent his fine craftsmanship to another society product. He has created mahogany penholders which come with a fine cross style pen. They are priced at $12 and may be purchased by contacting Sue Anderson at 860-342-0433.

Museum Exhibits

The Museum Exhibits Committee is working on the new Spring Exhibit. To add to the most recent Farm Exhibit, they are presently investigating a collection of antique tools, a large collection of photographs on tobacco growing at the Hale and Goodrich Farms provided by Elsie Hale, and floods, hurricanes and other natural disasters as documented in the Museum's collection. Watch for newspaper announcements and future newsletter updates for more information.

SPRING TEA PLANNED

On April 26, 2009, the Society will present a Spring Tea from 2 to 4 p.m. in the Prince Edward Ballroom at Saint Clements Castle on 1931 Portland Cobalt Road in Portland. The tea will feature the Vintage Hat program, "Under Every Great Hat is a Great Woman" by Barbara Cubanski as well as a Jewelry Sale of the items that have been donated to the Society.

Barbara Cubanski has a collection of 85 hats dating back to the time when women wouldn't be seen in public without a hat. She will have about 20 hats on display; each with a special story to tell. She will also showcase a feathered hat, the same hat that Lauren Bacall wore on the cover of Vogue Magazine in 1947. Cubanski is the former owner of Your Closet to Mine in Colchester. Guests are encouraged to wear their favorite hat to the tea!

At the jewelry sale, you'll find an array of beautiful vintage costume, designer, and fashion jewelry including signed and unsigned necklaces, bracelets, rings, brooches, pins, earrings, watches, and some men's and children's jewelry. Payment for jewelry purchases must be made by check or cash, no credit cards will be accepted.

Refreshments, consisting of an assortment of tasty sweets, tea, coffee, and iced tea, will be served and door prizes will be offered.

Admission is $12 per person and includes a $2 coupon off jewelry purchases totaling $10 or more. Please no children under the age of eight. Advance tickets can be purchased by mailing the order form located elsewhere in this newsletter or by calling Sue, 342-0433, Mary Ann, 342-0654, or Marie, 342-2847. Space is limited so be sure to place your order for tickets, today!

Ticket proceeds will benefit the programs of the Portland Historical Society and the operation of the Society's Museum. If you would like to help with this event or donate any jewelry items, please call Sue Anderson at 342-0433. (See next page to order tickets.)

The Portland Historical Society
