

Tomorrow Comes Crashing

3415 Roell Cir. B3
Paducah, KY 42001
270-441-9091
nshanemartin@comcast.net

Tomorrow Comes Crashing is:

Jeremy Bachuss*guitar/vocals
Randall Griggs*guitar/vocals
Shane Martin *bass
Matt Humphrey *drums

The band would like to thank:

Laykin, Daniel Bailey, God,
Dan Woelke, Mashanna Edwards,
Allan Ramsey, Spork, Chrissy, Pmac Music, Kevin Gong, Krakt.

Recorded at Indienet Studios in Nashville, Tennessee on November 9th & 10th 2002.

This CD is an enhanced CD containing video footage of Tomorrow Comes Crashing in the studio and a live performance of 142. This portion of the CD requires Quicktime media player and Windows 98/Mac OS9 or better.

photos & design by Allan Ramsey

www.tomorrowcomescrashing.tk

For years, the Paducah, KY punk scene has been just that...a punk scene. As of recently, however, many bands have emerged from the town and made their ways into other genres. Tomorrow Comes Crashing is one of said bands. Not hard enough to be hardcore, not pansy enough to be "emo," they have split the difference and refuse to use the term emocore.

Aside from being the quintessential all-star band of Paducah, Tomorrow Comes Crashing has established many credentials since bringing the rock into the hardcore scene earlier this year. They have played many shows in the states surrounding Kentucky, and have been invited to play even more.

The members of TCC are established musicians in their own right, each having been in many other relatively successful area bands prior to this. Jeremy Bachuss, vocalist/guitarist for Tomorrow Comes Crashing, is formerly of Lovelorn and Typical Reject. Randall Griggs was previously of Punching Bag and Oddly Enough before joining as a fellow vocalist/guitarist. Shane Martin played bass for Peace By Peace before becoming the trance producer known as nshane, but has returned to his bass roots for TCC. Matt Humphrey was the prodigal drummer for Victory Gin and has, after a hiatus, decided to grace Tomorrow Comes Crashing with his skills.

Don't allow their pasts to fool you, however. They have been known to throw the rock so hard that even electricity couldn't hang with them. Their performance and music has been compared to the likes of Braid, Sunny Day Real Estate and Coheed and Cambria. Tomorrow Comes Crashing is a soothingly chaotic blend that hasn't made an enemy yet, and is almost guaranteed not to anytime in the future.

