U.A.N.A.I. sails the Peloponnesian Peninsula

- Funia Zachary

In May 2008, 15 UANAI members headed to Greece to sail to the beautiful coastal towns and islands on the south eastern side of the Peloponnesian Peninsula.

Most people arrived in Athens a day or two before the trip for some sightseeing. We visited the Acropolis, the Temple of Zeus and Hadrian's Arch, and climbed to Mt.

Lycabettus where the views of Athens and the sea are just not to be believed! Definitely worth the strenuous climb!

In Alimos, we chartered two 40 foot sailing vachts from Vernicos Yachts at the Alimos Marina. Sifnos was captained by Wally Wdowychyn with a crew of Julie Pawluk (first mate), Mickey Komichak, Daria Pishko-Komichak, Yurko & Larissa Zinych and Olenka Bren. Nany (my boat) was captained by Petro Choma with a crew of Slawko Klaczany (first mate), Roxy Hladylowycz, Orysia Crozier, Jenilee Grzywo, Helen Tymoczko, Bo Liszniansky and me. Unfortunately, the winds were extremely calm and we did very little actual sailing. But the water and the sites and the friendship made the trip spectacular! The following is an abbreviated travel log of our excursion:

U.A.N.A.I. President Summer is here and after two

PARAGARARARARARARARARARARARA successful sailing trips -Greece (in May) and the Chesepeake Bay (in June) - we are moving onto our Annual Meeting and our Second Annual Family Sailing Day in August. This year, the event will be held at the Dorchester Park in lovely Broome County, NY, just 20min north of Binghamton, NY. Rent your own watercraft (canoes, rowboats, paddleboats, kayaks and sailboats are all available) and picnic with your fellow Ukes. We will utilize the excellent facilities at Dorchester Park to get together with our members (and potential new members!) for water sports fun. Please come out on August 2nd from 10am to 2pm and enjoy some lakeside fun.

The Annual Meeting will be held on the same day from 2 to 3pm. Only paid members will be able to participate in the voting. PLEASE feel free to call or email for additional details or questions about Family Day or the Annual Meeting at 215-680-7787 or president@uanai.com.

Sun: We sailed to Poros where we casually explored the town and enjoyed a beautiful sunset followed by dinner at Luna Piena. Loud dogs & raucous German neighbors made for a restless night.

Mon/Tues: We departed for Hydra where there is no motor traffic -- only mules and lots of cats. We had a slightly more strenuous walk exploring the town and enjoyed a beautiful sunset followed by dinner at Tavern Garden of Taste. On our second day in Hydra, Roxy had to leave us via ferry to Piraeus for medical care. The Sifnos crew went on a "Death march" to the Profitis Ilias Monastery while Nany explored more of Hydra and some enjoyed their first swim in the Mediterranean Sea. Dinner was on-board, followed by Yurko's birthday celebration on Sifnos.

Wed: Epidauros on the Peloponnesian mainland was our next stop – a much guieter location than the previous two islands. Unfortunately, Yurko injured his arm while docking (it's ok now). We took a leisurely walk and discovered the Agios Nikolaos Church. Nany had dinner at Taverna to Pedivoli, a beautiful garden restaurant where they serve free fresh fruit from their own trees. (Sifnos ate dinner on-board.)

Thurs: We visited the Theater of Epidauros (great acoustics) and the museum. We then sailed to Aegina where I almost fell overboard while helping Sifnos dock. A great laugh was had by all! (Thanks for saving me, Petro!) We enjoyed a casual stroll exploring the town and both boats ate dinner on-board.

Fri: Nine of us rented a "mini-bus" and explored the island of Aegina, with Mickey as our driver and Larissa, Daria & Olenka as our tour guides. After visiting the Agios Nectarios Monastery and the Sanctuary of Aphaia, we set sail back to the Alimos Marina. A beautiful sunset accompanied dinner in Athens at rooftop Taverna Elaia, right under the Sat: After saying goodbye to 4 of the crew, we headed to Athens to our hotels. The Zinychs, Slawko, Bo and I stayed at Arion and managed to get rooms next to each other on the top floor with our own connected private balcony overlooking the Acropolis. What a nice treat! Some of us took a quick metro & cab ride to find Roxy in the Hospital of Nikea in Piraeus. She was very grateful for our visit and we wished her a speedy return to health. Later, after some sightseeing / lounging / napping, we had our final dinner at Rodia with Daria & Mickey's friend, Mania.

Sun: We bid farewell as we made our way home to the U.S.A.

Everyone had a great time! (I'm happy to report that Roxy is back in the USA and doing well! We missed you, Roxy!) I can't wait for our next trip!! And everyone took awesome pictures! I'm currently working on putting together a DVD with everyone's pictures, complete with chapters, transitions, captions and yes, Greek music! ... After 10 days in Greece, I have to say -- it's STILL all Greek to me! (copyright Yurko Zinych).

Sailing in Greece May 2008—highlights in pictures - Marusia Antoniw

15 UANAI members sailed off for a 1 week adventure to the coastal towns and islands of the Greek Peloponnesian Peninsula. Two chartered boats formed a mini flotilla for some sailing and lots of fun. Kudos to the event organizer Wally Wdowychyn and to our Captains Petro Choma and Wally Wdowychyn for making this trip possible.

June Chesapeake Sail

- Marusia Antoniw

The U.A.N.A.I. held its annual June Chesapeake Sail on June 18 – 20, 2008. Three sailboats, including 2 privately owned boats, made up the flotilla that sailed from Rock Hall, MD to Annapolis, MD and then to the Magothy River near Purdy Point before returning to Rock Hall. A total of 13 sailors enjoyed this annual excursion which was blessed with wonderful sailing weather. One day we even had 10-15 knots! The chartered sailboat Liberty, a 38-ft Catalina 387, was skippered by Petro Choma with crewing assistance provided by Myron Liszniansky, Andrij Halushka, Nicole Lydzinski, Deanna Hazen, Eva Panchshyn, and John Wiaziwsky. Joining the flotilla were Oleh and Talia Bobak with Slawko Klaczany on Tsyhanka and David Sembrot with Myron and Marusia Antoniw on Pyxis.

After Thursday evening arrivals, the crews set sail Friday morning for Annapolis with favorable winds of 10 knots and pleasant temperatures. After a terrific day on the Bay, Tsyhanka and Liberty picked up moorings in the Annapolis Harbor in the late afternoon. Pyxis arrived an hour later and since all of the moorings were occupied, set an anchor in the outer area of the harbor. The wonderful winds that we enjoyed all day unfortunately resulted in an uncomfortable anchorage so Pyxis pulled anchor and occupied a transient slip at the Annapolis City Marina – a very tight area, but a secure one. (Since thunderstorms and rain came later that night, it proved to be a better alternative to the anchorage.) The group met up with Alex Chuchra and enjoyed a terrific dinner ashore in Annapolis at O'Brien's Oyster Bar & Restaurant. After dinner, the group split up for some delicious gelato, some shopping, and some margaritas aboard Pyxis.

Tsyhanka on the Chesapeake

Saturday morning, Liberty and Tsyhanka enjoyed some time in Annapolis and departed for the Magothy River. The crew of Pyxis explored Eastport and happened upon the 12th Annual Eastport a Rockin' Benefit Street Festival on the shores of Back Creek. Tons of food, vendors, 3 performance stages and 28 bands including Them Eastport Oyster Boys - a favorite of the Pyxis captain and crew. Dave secured permission from the Annapolis Maritime Museum director and band leader, Jeff Holland, for Pyxis to dock on Back Creek. The crew ran to the marina and brought Pyxis back in time for the show - docking to the strain of the "Marina, Marina" played by Them Eastport Oyster Boys! Sometimes it just all falls together! Ya know?

The group met up at the just inside the Magothy Narrows with Tsyhanka at anchor and Pyxis and Liberty rafted up on either side. "We love rafting up with all the other fellow sailors for our evening cocktails and snacks" said Nicole of Liberty. Swimming and socializing over dinner preceded an auction to acquire the kidnapped rubber ducky of Pyxis. Although there were some great bids (Talia offered a deck cleaning, Oleh offered a rendition of I'm a Little Teapot), the winning bid went to Dave who sang "Marina, Marina" accompanied by the dancing moves of Myron Antoniw. Then we were treated to a floor show of Deanna and Myron to the beats of Downy Ocean Hon'.

The Stolen Duckie

Sunday morning found the group enjoying plenty of sunshine, swimming, and Mini circling the boats in a dinghy attempting to create a whirlpool. After a leisurely breakfast, the group parted company and set sail up the Chesapeake for the return to Rock Hall. The company was fantastic, the views outstanding and the sailing fabulous. "Andrew and I always love the sailing trips, however, this one was awesome because the weather cooperated and gave way to some great sailing!" reflected Nicole of Liberty.

Thanks to the Captain's for their leadership and to Dave Sembrot for taking the time and energy to organize the annual sail. Look for next year's Chesapeake Sail information and join in the fun! (And bring your own duckie so you aren't tempted to kidnap Pyxis'!)

Sailing the Nile

- Talia Bobek

To celebrate my big 50th milestone, Oleh and I went to Egypt in February where the monuments are even older than I am. We toured the pyramids and the Valley of Kings but soon the desert got the better of us and we had to head out on the waters of the Nile.

We took a 4 day cruise from Luxor to Aswan, sailing down the tranquil waters of the Nile. It's amazing to see the river, a tiny strip of fertile green land and then desert as far as the eye can see.

Talia and Oleh near Cairo.

Life along the Nile is fascinating - Third World colliding with the modern age. And at any given time, we could see 10-15 cruise ships plying waters not much wider than 2-3 city blocks. What those ship captains can do to maneuver these ships is unbelievable, slipping into docks 4 -5 cruise ships across.

Capt. Shakespeare on his felucca.

Everywhere we stopped, hundreds of rowboats swarmed to the ships selling everything imaginable, throwing their goods up to the tourists and waiting for the cash to drop down to the waters. It was like a shark feeding frenzy. Incredible.

We also had a chance to sail a felucca with Captain "Shakespeare" - though Oleh kept trying to wrestle him for the tiller. The felucca is a deceptively simple sailing vessel with home made oars made of 2 x 6 lumber and squares of cotton cloth for sails. It is a traditional wooden sailing boat used by Nile fisherman for hundreds of years. The felucca varies in size from large rowboats to vessels with a small cabin for overnight stays. It features a mast that angles forward sharply and a large triangular sail hanging down from a long, two-piece yard. The winds are light on the Nile, so the felucca is perfect for crossing from one side to the other.

It was a wonderful trip and an exciting country to explore.

"The light small maneuverable feluccas are the mainstay of the fishing fleet. These workhorses featured a mast that angled, or raked, forward sharply, and a large triangular sail hanging down from a long, two-piece yard."

Educational Corner: ROPE AND KNOTS

- submitted by Lida Mykytyn Voronka (Source: http://www.scils.rutgers.edu/~elfox/knots.html)

Note: This section is intended for the education of novice sailors and a refresher course for those more seasoned. If there is a topic that you wish covered in the future, please email EDITOR@UANAI.COM.

Since rope is a vital part of a boat's equipment, a good sailor should be familiar with how to handle rope and how to tie a few basic knots. ROPE is used for controlling the sails, docking, mooring, and anchoring. KNOTS are needed to control the various lines, painters, halyards, sheets, and running rigging on a sailboat.

Lines - any length of rope that has a specified use.

Painters - the bow line by which a dinghy, or tender is towed or made fast.

Halvard - line used for hoisting sails.

Sheet - line that controls a sail or the movement of a boom (Jibsheet controls the jib; Mainsheet controls the main boom).

Running rigging - all of the moving lines, such as sheets and halyards, used in the setting and trimming of sails.

A knot is usually found at the end of a rope, but the term is also used to describe a hitch (which is used to secure a rope to another object), and a bend which is used to tie two ropes together.

Just like sailing, knotting has its own terminology. The running end of the rope is the part used in making the knot. The standing part is not used in forming the knot (it is the part under strain). The bight is the bend in the rope between the two ends. Here are the SIX BASIC KNOTS that every sailor should know how to tie:

Overhand or thumb knot

Overhand or thumb knot, is the simplest knot. It is used to stop the end of a rope from running through a block or up the mast.

It is difficult to untie, and should only be used on lines that are not re-rigged frequently (such as jib sheets).

To tie an overhand knot, form an overhand loop by crossing the running end over the standing part. Then cross the running end behind the standing part, and through the loop.

Square knot

The square knot is the best known sailors' knot. It is really just two overhand knots. It is useful for joining small ropes together, tying sail covers, reefing, lashing, and for tying in battens - the thin wooden strips fitted into pockets for stiffening the leech of a sail.

It is very easy to tie a square knot, you just have to remember one rule: right over left, then left over right. If you don't do this correctly, you have a granny knot, which slips easily.

Figure Eight

A figure eight knot is very quick and easy to tie. It is used like the overhand knot, as a stopper knot in the end of a line, or sheet, to prevent ropes from escaping. It can also be used to attach rope halyards, to the sails. It never jams, however much pressure is applied, and can be untied easily, even if wet.

To tie a figure-8, start with an underhand loop by crossing the running end behind the standing part. Then take the running end and bring it over the standing part and back around through the loop from beneath. Draw the end up snugly.

Bowline

The bowline, sometimes called the "king of knots", is one of the most useful knots to a sailor. It is multi-purpose, and can be used to secure a line to a bollard, or to a ring, or to make a loop at the end of a line. It can be made quickly and easily and will never jam, even after under strain.

To tie a bowline, put the line around the object to which it is to be tied and make a simple overhand loop, by crossing the running end over the standing part. Then put the running end through the loop, from underneath. Then wrap the running end around the back of the standing part. To finish, put the running end back down through the loop in the same way it came out. Many children are taught to do the bowline by following these simple instructions: "The rabbit comes out of the hole, runs around the tree, and goes back down the hole."

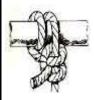

Clove hitch

A clove hitch is used chiefly to tie a line to a post or pile. Many sailors use a clove hitch to moor small boats, but be careful because if there isn't steady tension on the line, it can loosen. For more security, the line's end should be half-hitched to its standing part.

To form a clove hitch, two underhand loops can be slipped over a pole. To tie an underhand loop, cross the running end behind the standing part.

Double Half Hitch

This knot is also called a round turn and two half hitches, or two half hitches. It can be used to attach a line to a beam or pole. It moors boats much more securely than a clove hitch.

This is a simple knot to tie; pass the line twice around a pole, and then finish by tying two half hitches around the standing part of the line. A half hitch is the knot most people use to tie a parcel.

Start 'Em Early!

A long time U.A.N.A.I. member, Chrystia C. recently recounted this story about her young daughters, both of whom attended the U.A.N.A.I. Family Fun Day last year.

Last April, Chrystia's young daughters were playing with a plastic toy sailboat which they received from their Vyuko Petro (Choma - a U.A.N.A.I. captain.) The younger sibling was moving the sail as she pushed the sailboat along the floor. Her older sister, who enjoys playing teacher, began explaining that the sail needs to remain fixed in one position and that "real" sailboats don't have sails that move. Chrystia overheard their conversation and decided that it's never too early to start molding her children into sailors. What a perfect opportunity to start teaching them about sailing! With just the very simple basics, Chrystia explained that a "real" sailboat is able to move by filling its sails with wind. If the wind shifts and the sails aren't full, the boat will slow down. To continue moving, the sail needs to be moved to accommodate the wind.

It appeared that the older daughter grasped some of the concepts but as every teacher understands, you need an example to cement the lesson. So Chrystia promised to take her sailing when the weather got a bit warmer to show her what she meant. To which her daughter responded "You know, Vyuko Petro knows all about boats, maybe we should go sailing with him!"

Chrystia's family is looking forward to the U.A.N.A.I. family event scheduled to take place this summer and are hoping for some good, steady wind.
