

Chapter History

The Nebraska Cornhusker Chapter of the Institute of Management Accountants, formerly the National Association of Accountants, came into existence in 1978. Our Charter was granted by resolution of the Board of Directors of the Institute of Management Accountants on March 17, 1978.

Formal action to start a chapter in Lincoln began in 1977. John Caspari, now of Bradley University, was instrumental in directing the organizational process. A survey of the accounting community indicated a solid foundation for a chapter was in place.

Our first official meeting as a chapter took place on April 19, 1978, at the NBC Center. Our Charter was formally presented by R. Leslie Ellis the National President of IMA, and William M. Young, Jr., then Executive Director of IMA.

Some objectives of the chapter are as follows:

- To advance the body of knowledge of management accounting through technical meetings and speakers.
- To provide professional development opportunities and seminars for our members.
- To encourage members to grow professionally by earning the Certificate in Management Accounting.
- To allow members to meet others from the accounting community.

Stuart Cameron McLeod Society

The Stuart Cameron McLeod Society of the Institute of Management Accountants was founded in 1934 as the Spot Club. Its purpose was to promote and perpetuate friendships developed through service in the institute of Management Accountants and to keep past national officers and directors interested in the continuing success of the association.

In 1957, the name Spot Club was changed to honor Stuart Cameron McLeod (1885-1944) who served at the national level as Secretary of IMA from 1919-1944. Membership in the honorary society is open to IMA members who have distinguished themselves in service at the national level.

The following members of the Nebraska Cornhusker Chapter have been honored with SCMS induction:

Ronald R. Anderson (1987)
James F. Brown, Jr. (1987)
Leonard F. Murphy (1985)
