

Yuletide 2006

Ho! Ho! Ho! Happy Holidays once again everyone! Seems like just yesterday when I sent out my annual letter. So here it is again. First thing's first....We've MOVED! So please update your address books. Speaking of updates.....here are the other things that occurred in 2006.

I graduated pre-school last June. Yay! And in case some of you don't know, I turned the big 5 this year and had a Jojo's circus party. Special thanks to Auntie Monica (who dressed up as Jojo) and to Auntie Sheree for making it a memorable one—they're awesome!! Few weeks later after my birthday I started Kindergarten. I was sad to leave behind my pre-school friends like Julian, Lauren, and my now ex-boy-friend Thomas. Starting kindergarten wasn't too bad at all and I think it helped that my good friend Marco (from my preschool) was there to make the transition easier. I've also enjoyed making new friends at my new school like Maile, Georgy, and Alex.

This year along with my other usual activities of swimming and gymnastics, I took up some new ones. I did Soccer for a few weeks in the fall, started Ballet/Tap with my friends Mandy and Bachi at WSPA, and I also took up Hula/Ori through my new school's extended care program. So far I've done my first Tahitian dance and tap dance on stage this month. My mommy and daddy are so proud! I'm sure there'll be more performances in the future, so watch out world 'cause here I come!!!

Let's see....where have I been this year? As usual we took our annual trip to Disneyland in April and took a short trip to Monterey last September. The picture shown here is a special one because my daddy also took one here at the exact same place when he was my age at Dennis the Menace Park.

This year's Halloween was pretty uneventful. I had my Ariel mermaid costume but I got really sick and didn't get a chance to go trick or treating. I did get to dress up as a pilgrim for Thanksgiving, thanks to my Auntie Gia! It was a hit at school!

Please keep in touch as we'd love to hear from everyone. Also, please visit my website for occasional photo updates.
